The University of California, Santa Cruz invites applications for the position of Dean of the Social Sciences Division. UC Santa Cruz has earned national and international recognition for high-quality research and world-class teaching. Faculty, researchers, and students enjoy an exciting environment and the opportunity to work across disciplinary boundaries as they approach today’s most challenging problems. The Dean provides intellectual and academic leadership in the instructional and research missions of the Social Sciences Division and serves as the division’s chief executive, representative, and administrator, with responsibility for a full range of activities associated with the management and promotion of the excellence of the academic and research missions of the division. As academic unit heads, Deans are persons of scholarly and professional accomplishment. The University encourages their continued engagement as academics in scholarly, professional, teaching, and University service activities, consistent with, but distinct from, their decanal responsibilities. A Dean shall be a tenured member of the faculty.

Home to nearly 45 percent of UC Santa Cruz’s undergraduate majors and almost one-third of the graduate students, the Social Sciences Division – focused on the study of human relationships – comprises eight academic departments including Anthropology, Economics, Education, Environmental Studies, Latin American and Latino Studies, Politics, Psychology, and Sociology which grant eleven baccalaureate degrees, two masters degrees, and eight doctoral degrees. Two residential undergraduate colleges (College 9 and College 10) are formally within the division, and the Provost of both colleges reports directly to the dean.

Social Sciences Division faculty research spans multiple fields of study and is supported by the division’s highly interdisciplinary research centers and initiatives that address salient social, economic, and policy issues. Enhancing learning and engagement are nine research centers, one of which oversees a 35 acre organic farm on campus, an institute for educators, and an innovative socio-techno (Everett) program designed to reduce barriers to civic participation and social justice. Further information about the Division of Social Sciences can be found by visiting http://socialsciences.ucsc.edu/.

RESPONSIBILITIES: The Dean provides strategic vision and manages the academic leadership of the division, oversees all division resources and hiring, promotion and retention of faculty and staff, guides the development and oversight of undergraduate and graduate curriculum and degree programs, and works with campus administration and the Academic Senate on campuswide decisions and policies.
